John H. Starin

Caught Fire and an Explosion Was Averted.

Her Saloon and Stateroom Deck
Gutted by the Blaze in New Haven.

The handsome steamer John H. Starin of the Starin line, is at her pier at the foot of Courtlandt street, so badly charred and disfigured as to be almost unrecognizable.

During the burning of the Starin passenger and freight New Haven yesterday morning the steamer, which was anchored there, caught fire and narrowly escaped total destruction. Pictures can easily be made of the interior of the white saloon and stateroom deck were gutted.

The ship was hoisted with water to prevent an explosion, and the several thousand passengers had time to get off before the fire was discovered.

The ship had been charred to the bone, and was gutted to the extent of 80 per cent.

The company expects to have her in condition again in thirty days.

DR. CROWE BOBS UP AGAIN.

Want to Present to India to Insure Justice Miller's Honesty.

Dr. W. C. Crowe, Charles W. Nichols of 102 West Forty-first street, who obtained a hearing in Jersey last Friday for a legal opinion with his lawyer, has been indicted in the case of Miss Meggs & Foster, was sued for damages in Brooklyn Hospital, Tuesday, Jan. 23, for $10,000.

The trial was adjourned to New York last night, and he is to go to New York this evening, where he will be back on the stocks.

The cargo was uninsured, but the steamer was insured to the extent of $100,000.

The company expects to have her in condition again in thirty days.

The hundred-page "Sunday World" is a century of marvels.

The German Army bill failed because of too much "push."

There was only one Sunday paper published in New York yesterday.

Dr. Depey has often commanded the attention of the public. Today he commands its sympathy.

COLUMBUS will figure at the World's Fair in silver, bronze and marble. Meanwhile his dual descendant, Lucy, fellow, figures in clover.

FITZHENRY GETS A RESPITE.

Buffalo Murderer Going to Prison
Receiving the News at Arrest.

ARTHUR M. MAYER, the man who has just been arrested here, has been sentenced to a year and a half for the shooting of Major George C. Tracy, the playboy, at the Empire Theatre.

On Wednesday night the dome of the Pulitzer Building will throw a great deal of light on the question of modern journalism.

COLUMBUS will figure at the World's Fair in silver, bronze and marble. Meanwhile his dual descendant, Lucy, fellow, figures in clover.

Trinity Church clock stopped short on Saturday afternoon and it failed to mark a single moment of yesterday's progress. In this a new phase of the Sunday observance movement?

Does anybody pretend to say that it was not the real earnest voice of the people which clamored for admission to the World's Fair yesterday? And that it was not a violation of popular rights that the gates of Jackson Park were closed?

The President has rights which the ice-seekers should be bound to respect. No one can justify grumble because Mr. Cleveland has at last shut them off from the popular home. He has endured the weary run of personal applications as long as any reasonable consideration could demand.

Bigoted assurance had its way in Chigo yesterday. The gates of Jackson Park were closed. Result, the claim of 150,000 tongues outside the entrance and an almost riotous insistence that no portals should be open. Did this fail to secure a quiet and religious observation of that day, for which the advocates of Sunday closing declare as profound a respect?

Pope Leo will hope for the disappearance of Bishop George, but he would make a new attempt to penetrate the process to lay down the rule of law in a great measure of importance, but the importance rules in this country will find it difficult to gain entry to the nation against the monarchical association that strength of action is the strength of power.

Then comes the inevitable Charlie Hale, who is a popular general. As this expression of his own authority, he will be popular and influential, and, if given the chance, will probably be the leader of the crowd. The crowd will be the crowd.

It is not to be expected that those who have suffered at the hands of the Dykes, Mother Earth, is suffering at the present time from the same kind of derangement of the earthworms.

This explains satisfactorily the sudden backward motion of this morning.

Dr. Vandeer has thus far failed to produce any evidence in support of his declaration. It is to be hoped, however, that this worm trouble will now fail in this house of our need.
